$5,004,780 Delaware Dredging Job Awarded

Andalusia Deepening Is Set

The Army Engineers yesterday awarded a $5,004,780 contract to two Minneapolis, Minn., firms for deepening a one-mile stretch of the Delaware River channel off Andalusia, it was announced by Congressman Willard Curtin.

The contract went to the Al Johnson Co. and Peter Kewit Sons, working jointly. The contract calls for the excavation and disposal of 911,000 cubic yards of material from the channel.

The channel will be deepened to 40 feet and will be 400 feet wide. The contract is part of the overall program to deepen the channel to 40 feet between Allegheny Ave., Philadelphia, to Newbold Island, near the Fairless Works, and to 35 feet from the island to Trenton.

It is estimated that the entire project will cost $96,000,000. Not including the contract awarded yesterday, nearly $28,000,000 has been spent so far. The project is about 20 per cent completed. The Corps of Army Engineers estimate it will take until 1964 to finish the job.

Work on the latest section should start in about two or three weeks.

Not So Cool Pool

Despite the warm spell the pool of stagnant water in the bottom of the uncompleted swimming pool in the new Woodrow Wilson School, Green Lane and Mill Creek Road, Bristol Township, does not look too inviting. Construction reports indicate the pool won't be ready until late winter. The glass wall looks out on what will be the campus and football stadium. (Courier-Times Photo)

Castro Leads Troops

HAVANA (UPI) — The government announced today it had smashed an airborne invasion from the Dominican Republic in central Cuba. It said the fighting was led personally by Premier Fidel Castro.

The announcement said the final blow to the attempted invasion came Thursday night when the Castro-led forces captured a Dominican C46 transport plane which had flown in with another shipment of arms and munitions for the invading forces.

Four men were killed in the fight for the plane outside the city of Trinidad — two counter-revolutionaries and two members of the government forces.

Ten Persons Aboard

The government announcement said the plane was piloted by former Lt. Col. Antonio Soto. It said Soto and a former Capt. Betancourt were among 6 of the 10 occupants of the plane who were injured. The two rebel lead were not identified.

Castro and a number of his top lieutenants were directly involved in capturing the plane.

Captured "invaders" included Luis Pozo Jimenez, son of Havana ex-Mayor Justo L. Pozo; and a man identified as the son of former Lt. Col. Lutgardo M. Perez, who commanded the Police Department's prowler fleet under the regime of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The announcement said Cuban government Lt. Elipe Perez and a civilian, Frank Hidalgo Cato, also were killed and that six government men were injured in the exchange of fire with the invaders.

Cuban authorities said the Dominican plane was carrying large quantities of arms and munitions. They also said the government had captured several other such shipments of arms during the recent days in defeating the invasion force.

Report To Nation

The government said Castro had been on the scene for two days and would report to the nation tonight. This presumably would be the nationwide radio-television speech first expected last Saturday when Castro was reported ready to announce defeat of an anti-government plot.

The government announcement blamed the invasion attempt squarely on Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, strong man of the Dominican Republic.

"The capture of this Trujillo airplane brings to a close this chapter of an international conspiracy and of the counter-revolutionary interests in which the jackal Trujillo had an active part," the government announcement said. "This will be demonstrated by our prime minister tonight before the television cameras."

Good Evening!

Somebody say summer?

Mercury riding 92 yesterday, same today and tomorrow and no better time to be off to the pools, the shore, the mountaintops.

Landrum - Griffin labor bill approved by the House and a smashing victory for President Eisenhower it was.

But maybe an even more significant victory for the people of the United States who've simply gotten their dander up over the awful corruption in some of the labor unions and are demanding laws to eliminate it.

It'll be interesting, of course, to see what happens when the measure goes to conference. But it's a sure bet that Congress won't quit until the legislation we need is legislated.

Big day tomorrow for youngsters of Fairless Hills.

Reform Bill Gets House Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed by a decisive margin today the labor reform bill that President Eisenhower and business groups said is needed to stop labor corruption and racketeering.

The measure—toughest of three bills considered by the House — was approved over vigorous opposition of union leaders and lobbyists. They charged that its controls would punish honest unions and their members.

The measure now goes back to the Senate which passed a much milder measure last April, 90-1. A Senate-House conference committee will be assigned to work out a compromise.

Final House passage was anticlimactic. The floor battle which began Tuesday ended for all practical purposes Thursday when the House tentatively approved the measure, 229 to 201. Final passage was postponed until today on a technicality.

Final House passage came after the legislators twice rejected—first on a standing vote of 146-71 and then on formal roll call vote of 279-129—efforts to kill the measure. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

Heat Cracks Auto Glass

Today will be the hottest day of the month according to the weather man in Trenton, but a Levittown family probably thinks yesterday was hot enough.

The rear window of a vehicle owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Fleck, 30 Apricot Lane completely shattered under the intense heat when yesterday's high temperature leaped to 92 degrees at 4:30 p.m.

The high today is expected to hit 95 degrees in mid-afternoon, with a low of 75 late this afternoon.

The overnight temperature is predicted to remain at 73 degrees. The general outlook for the area today, tonight and tomorrow is fair, hot and humid with the possibility of showers late tomorrow evening.

Cooler and less humid weather should move into Bucks County sometime Sunday.

To date, said the weather bureau, the hottest day of the past two years was registered on June 29, 1959, when the thermometer zoomed to 98.

Twp. School Bus Service Cut, Walking Is Increased

Pupils of the Bristol Township and Delhaas Joint School systems will be doing a lot of walking this year.

An economy minded Bristol Township school Board last night approved a new school bus schedule that "drastically" cuts back the bus service for pupils.

Hardest hit will be pupils of the two junior and two senior high schools in the Delhaas Joint system. This system serves Bristol Township and Tullytown.

Bristol Township, which makes up about 95 per cent of the enrollment, provides the transportation for all the pupils.

Under the new bus plan the 150 bus stops and pick up points formerly used have been dropped. Junior and senior high school pupils will have to walk to 20 central loading points.

Buses will pick the students up at these points and then drop them off again at night.

Elementary schools, or school property were used as central loading points were possible.

Two More Schools Open
On the elementary level the opening of two schools will make it possible to further reduce the transportation needs. The majority of elementary pupils will be able to walk to schools.

In most areas the elementary school transportation situation is the same as last year.

However, with the opening of the Lincoln school in Plumbridge pupils from that section and from Mill Creek Falls will be able to walk now, with the exception of the first and second grade pupils from Mill Creek.

Children from Holly Hill, Crabtree, and Oaktree Hollow will be able to walk to the new George Washington school.

Pupils who formerly attended the William Penn school, in Edgely, will now be bused to the James Buchanan, Haines Road, Levittown.

Some of the central loading points and the area they will serve are:

Jefferson school, Holly Hill, Appletree Hill, Red Cedar Hill, Oaktree Hollow and Crabtree Hollow.

Imprisoned were Thomas Fagella Jr., 24, of 31 Sunset Lane, and William W. Stutzman, 22, of 246 Kenwood Drive. Fagella is the son of Thomas Fagella Sr., Tullytown Borough Council secretary.

The youths were arrested July 25, by Middletown Township police when they attempted to burglarize a Howard Johnson Restaurant, on Route 1, Middletown Township.

Fagella, who is on 23 months probation until Feb. 26 on an assault and battery charge, started his sentence immediately. Stutzman's sentence starts from the day of his arrest. He is also wanted for a parole violation in the state of Washington.

No Change Seen In Steel 'Peace Talks'
NEW YORK (UPI)—Peace talks in the national steel strike limped along today with no signs of union or management changing their stand-firm positions.

The prospects of an accord seemed almost as remote as when the walkout started a month ago. Chief government mediator Joseph F. Finnegan who had been in Washington on budgetary matters was back at the bargaining table when the joint session was resumed. He was blanked by three assistants.

Twp. Schools OK $150,000 In Economies

By GORDON PARKER
Courier-Times Staff Writer

In a brief, but tension-packed meeting last night the Bristol Township School Board approved a two-pronged economy drive designed to save $150,000.

The economies were affected by "drastic" cut-backs in the school bus and custodial services.

Abraham Shore, school district accountant, said the cut-backs were "just the beginning." He said the board hopes that by other economies it will be able to wipe out the deficit which has piled up over the years.

The deficit was estimated at over $300,000 in the current budget.

Polio Clinic Set At Egan High Tomorrow

One dollar polio shots will be given tomorrow at Bishop Egan Catholic High School, Levittown, and Central Bucks High School, Doylestown, it was announced today by the Bucks County Department of Health.

The Bishop Egan clinic will run from 2 to 5 p.m.

At the same time the department announced that three more clinics have been added to the August schedule.

Inoculations will be given in the dining room of the men's camp at King Farms, off Bordenstown Road, near Tullytown, on Aug. 22, between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. The same day a clinic will be operated at the former Bristol Terrace School building, off Beaver Dam Road, Bristol Township, between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Inoculation crews will return to these locations on Sept. 26.

Another clinic will be set up at the Yardley Community Center, 66 South Main St., Yardley, on Aug. 29, between 10 a.m. and noon.

Dr. Joseph Still, county health director, reported that the clinic maintained at Linconia will be discontinued for a few months.

He said most of the residents of the area have had their first and second shots. The clinic will resume in a few months to provide the third and fourth shots for them.

Dr. Still, in announcing the changes in the schedule, said, "We (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

'Levitt? - - - Never Heard Of Him,' Says Top Soviet

By JOHN BRINKER
Courier-Times Staff Writer

A top Soviet official at the just concluded Russian Exhibition in New York has admitted that he "never heard of Bill Levitt," biggest and most famous builder of private homes in the United States.

The statement is interesting in the light of three recent facts.

First, the widely publicized intention of President Dwight D. Eisenhower to invite Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit housing areas such as Levittown to show the Premier how average, working Americans really live.

Secondly, the fact that the Soviet Union is currently placing a great emphasis on housing. This was graphically illustrated during Vice President Richard Nixon's trip to Russia.

The vice president said that everywhere he went he was particularly impressed by the many, many housing projects which were under construction.

Thirdly, making the statement was a high official from the Soviet Foreign office, picked to display the achievements of the Russian people, who was admitting his ignorance of one of the important phases of American life.

The Soviet official who made the admission is Ivan Barbanoe, deputy director who was in charge of the Exhibition during its waning hours while Director General Alex Manzhulo was in Mexico negotiating for the possible display of the show there.

The exhibition closed in New York on Monday.

Ivan Barbanoe is a stocky man, about 5' 7", in his 50's, and has a pleasant, intelligent face. His smile was ready and warm.

He looks "typically Russian."

Clearly, his manner — comfortable, easy tact, dignity and polish — reflected his many years of diplomatic training and service in the Soviet Foreign Office.

His only broad grin flashed as a reply to the following:

"Sir, it seems awkward to approach you in the spirit of friendship, to talk with you, and to have a frank discussion in view of The Cold War."

"We're from Levittown. It was named after the man who is the biggest and most famous builder of private homes in the United States, Bill Levitt."

"Levitt. I never heard of him," Barbanoe replied.

"Would you please write his name down?"

We did.

The name of Levitt is well-known to most Americans. It is practically synonymous with the building of large-scale housing projects.

We told him of Levitt's unique construction techniques.

Barbanoe was very interested in the accomplishments of Levitt in the housing field and appeared hungry for more information.

We asked Ivan Barbanoe the purpose of the Russian Exhibition.

"To show the achievements of the Russian people," he answered.

Here was a high Soviet Foreign Office official who was sent to this country to display Russian achievements to us and yet he was completely ignorant of an important phase of American life.

A recent statement by Vice President Nixon sprang to mind. Nixon said that Nikita Khrushchev "has some very real misconceptions about the United States."

It seems that Khrushchev is not the only Russian official who lacks understanding about the U.S.

But Ivan Barbanoe didn't have any misunderstandings about Levittown.

In fact, he had no understanding at all.

County TB Program Is Paying Dividends

An increase in the number of known cases of Tuberculosis in Bucks County over last year was reported today by the Bucks County Department of Health.

A mid-year analysis by the department disclosed a total of 469 known cases. Of these, 167 are being cared for by private physicians. The remaining 302 cases are being treated, or followed-up in three clinics of Bucks County.

The increase, however, was attributed by the health department to the uncovering of cases which previously had not been discovered. The disclosure of many new cases was considered the result of a five year active program by the health department in which nurses of the department were out looking for cases "to make sure they are treated and properly followed-up."

Of the 302 clinic cases 14 active cases are now in State Sanatoria and 39 active cases are on anti-tubercular therapy in their homes. Most of these 39 cases have spent some time in a Sanatorium before being released to continue drug treatment at home.

Generally speaking, patients on home treatment are carefully selected, cooperative patients who can be depended on to not endanger other people. Until their disease becomes inactive they are not permitted to work or to mingle with and thus endanger other people.

The clinics also are following the status of 240 cases now classified as inactive, though 48 of these cases are still receiving antibiotic drugs.

Dr. Joseph W. Still, Director of the Bucks County Department of Health, who released these figures, pointed out that, "the increasing number of patients with tuberculosis who are being treated with antibiotics outside of sanatoria is saving the taxpayers a good deal of money."

"This manner of treatment is also providing a far more acceptable form of treatment from the patient's standpoint. But this home treatment which has now been going on for about two years in Bucks County is creating a lot more work for our nurses. In the month of July there were 239 clinic visits and the nurses made a total of 265 visits to the homes of tubercular patients."

Back Pay Hold-Up Blamed On Unions By Superintendent

Kermit L. Johannsen charged today that $2,000,000 in back salaries due employees of the Fairless Works, U. S. Steel Corporation, has not been paid because of the "closed gate" policy by union locals in the first three weeks of the strike.

Johannsen, general superintendent of the Fairless Works, made this charge in an advertisement printed in today's Courier-Times.

The Fairless Works superintendent said that the more than $2,000,000 is money due to employees for the time they worked after June 27 until July 14 when the five-week-old strike began. Vacation pay during that period is also included.

Johannsen asserted that plant management has at all times during this period been willing to have this payroll calculated in the usual manner by the normal occupants of the jobs involved and to have it disbursed at the usual times.

But the steel plant official charges that the activity of the union officers of the four union locals involved in the strike at the Fairless Plant made the plant the only one in the entire United States Steel Corporation which had a closed gate during the first three weeks of the strike.

Leaders of the four union locals at the Fairless Works are, contending that the company asked for and the unions agreed to provide six union members to do the job of payroll calculation.

But the union leaders charge the company representatives later changed their minds and demanded that the normal working force of about 40 employees, union and non-union, be used to calculate the payrolls.

AF To Attempt Space Capsule 'Catch'
VANDEMBERG AFB, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force will attempt today the world's first successful recovery of a space capsule from orbit.

Working against four straight losses, chances appeared better than ever before that the capsule spinning around the earth aboard the new Discoverer V satellite would eject on schedule sometime between 5:30 and 6 p.m. e.d.t.

Eight C-119s boxcar planes circling a pre-determined area in the Pacific Ocean southwest of Hawaii will have about 10 minutes to move in and snatch the parachuting capsule with "sky hooks."

Failing that, ships will try to recover the radio-signalling capsule from the ocean.

Won't Rent Buses

Henry B. Decker, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of the business office, presented the new schedule last night.

He conceded that, "There will be a lot of unhappy people," but he said, "we are cutting down on costs."

He also said that the new schedule creates the problem of having crowds congregating on school property, but, "it had to be done."

Earlier in the meeting, the school board unanimously approved a motion by Mrs. Martha Kushlan not to rent school buses to any other groups or organizations. The board reserved the right to consider "any special cases."

'Stop The Music'

Boro Band Concert Audience Violates 'No Parking' Area

Some 200 spectators were relaxing to the pleasant sounds emanating from the Bristol Borough Community Summer Band Concert at Memorial Park, Bristol, last night.

Several selections had already been completed when a Bristol Borough Police car happened on the scene.

The police officers looked at the cars lined up along both sides of Prospect St. They looked at the very clearly marked "no parking" signs on both sides of the street and they looked at the 200 residents, several of them borough councilmen.

A conference was held and Police Chief Vincent Faragalli was summoned to the scene.

The law is the law and Chief Faragalli said it must be obeyed.

Band director Kenneth Bachman brought the concert to a sudden halt, declared a 15-minute intermission and told the people in the audience that if they did not move their cars from Prospect St., they would be ticketed.

The cars were moved and no tickets given, but not without an argument from several of the residents. Nick Pascale, a former borough councilman, protested vehemently.

"I guess the best thing for me to do is get back on council and make sure things like this don't happen," Pascale declared.

This morning, Chief Faragalli explained the police action. He pointed out that the no-parking area was established by borough council on the recommendation of the Borough Recreation Board.

"When I arrived at the park, there were cars on both sides of the road parked every which way," Faragalli said. "What this does is to make a one-way area out of two-way street."

"There were children all over the place and an accident could easily have happened," Faragalli said.

The borough police chief said one accident almost did happen. "A six year old girl started to walk across the street, carrying her toy doll. She dropped the doll and a car was coming at her. It stopped. One of the guys who was doing all the hollering looked the other way. He didn't want to see what could have happened," Faragalli said.

Chief Faragalli said that he and members of the police committee of borough council changed the Faragalli said his police officers had intended to be at the park before the concert began to warn motorists from the no parking area.

The police chief said these plans were canceled because the police were investigating an attempt by a motorist to lure a small girl into his car.

sure by sending it back to committee.

The public galleries Thursday were jam-packed with spectators with more than 100 waiting outside for seats. Today one-third of the seats were empty.

President Eisenhower praised the House for approving a bill that would "deal effectively" with corruption and racketeering in labor unions.

"This action gives cause and real hope that the Congress will ultimately pass a good labor reform bill," he said in a statement from his Gettysburg, Pa., vacation retreat.

But AFL-CIO President George Meany termed the House action "a victory for anti-labor forces... not a vote on the issue of corruption, but a vote to punish honest labor."

The drive by labor lobbyists to hold down the vote margin on final passage was designed to strengthen the hand of Senate negotiators who will try to soften the House bill in a Senate-House conference. The conferees will have the task of hammering out a compromise between the House measure and the milder bill the Senate passed 90 to 1 last April.

Public Clamor For Bill

Paul Zagari, chief lobbyist for Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, predicted that the Senate-House conferees would deadlock, thereby killing all labor reform legislation this year.

But few lawmakers subscribed to that theory. Democratic leaders, felt they must get a bill to the White House to answer "the rising public clamor for labor reform."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D. Mass.), chief author of the Senate bill and scheduled to be one of the conferees, said "we must have a bill." He conceded it would be difficult to draft a compromise. But he said, "I don't think we ought to go home without a labor bill."

Unlike the Senate bill, the House-approved measure would prohibit picketing of non-union shops to organize workers unless the union could show that about 30 per cent of the workers wanted a union. Even then, the duration of picketing would be limited.

The House legislation also would go much farther than the Senate bill in closing loopholes in existing restrictions on secondary boycotts—pressures against neutral employers to stop doing business with a firm involved in a labor dispute.

William Levitt Also Invites Nikita Here

William J. Levitt, president of Levitt and Sons, Inc., and builder of three Levittowns, sent a cable to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev seconding President Eisenhower's invitation to the Soviet leader to visit Levittown and "see how Mr. Average Man can and does live in the United States."

Levitt was on a brief visit to Puerto Rico when news of the President's statement reached him. He immediately dispatched his own personal invitation to the Soviet Premier along with a copy to Mr. Eisenhower.

Levitt's invitation read as follows:

"Following President Eisenhower's conference of yesterday, I second his invitation to visit Levittown, Pa., to see how Mr. Average Man can and does live in the United States."

"We should also like you to see the same houses, the same schools, the same swimming pools that your athletic squad saw in its visit to Levittown, N. J., last month."

"We extend to you a welcome hand."

Assemblyman James J. A. Gallagher has sent a telegram to President Eisenhower to tell him that he would like to entertain Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in his own home.

The Bucks County legislator said he would like to have Khrushchev begin his proposed visit to Levittown "at my home."

One of the latest invitations sent to Khrushchev has been issued by the Levittown Exchange Club.

The Exchangeites are asking Khrushchev and his entire party to be their guests at a luncheon at the Pennsylvan Inn on the day of the Khrushchev visit to Lower Bucks.

The Exchange Club's offer includes a guarantee of unlimited vodka and caviar.

Meanwhile, the Bristol Motel has wired the State Department to offer its facilities and hospitality to the touring Russians.

Frank Messenger, publicity chairman of the Levittown Junior Chamber of Commerce, has just returned from Washington, D.C., where he met with Congressman Willard S. Curtin and State Department officials.

The Jaycee publicist said that the White House is preparing a letter to the Levittown Jaycees.

Messenger reports that the Jaycees have received hundreds of letters and phone calls since the Eisenhower statement was made.

Jaycee President Robert Hisey, 22 Nickle Hill Lane, North Park, Levittown, is accepting all communications.

Communities surrounding Levittown have also been expressing their interest in a Khrushchev visit.

Bristol Borough Council President William Veitch said he would like a chance to show the Soviet leader "a great historical community, especially some of the houses along Radcliffe St. that are almost as old as this country."

Twp. Schools

the audience, the board voted pay bus drivers only for the time they spent driving buses. This was estimated at five hours a day. However, the drivers were not guaranteed any set number of hours.

The school directors also approved sweeping changes in the routes for buses picking up senior and junior high school students. The board cut the number of bus stops from 150 to 20.

Eleven custodial jobs were eliminated by the board in the second part of its economy drive. This is an average of one cut from each of the 11 elementary schools.

A similar proposal will be presented to the Delhaas Joint Board to cut back janitorial services for the two junior and two senior high schools.

The proposals were "presented" by Henry B. Decker, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of the business office.

Difficult To Hear

Decker read the proposals in a loud, clear voice but it was difficult to hear him at times because of the noise from the crowd.

As soon as Decker finished reading each proposal the board accepted and approved them almost automatically. There was no discussion and the board ignored the shouts of protests and efforts of spectators to take the floor and speak against the proposals.

At several points Benjamin F. Stockett Jr., board president, asked the crowd to quiet down. "This is a public meeting, but it isn't necessary that you participate," he told the crowd. "You can come here and listen and try to understand what we your representatives are doing," he lectured.

The board conducted its business swiftly and with no side discussions, disputes or other diversions which mark most meetings. It moved through the routine business with almost robot-like precision.

Then, at 9:46 p.m., after approving payment of the bills, the directors voted to adjourn.

Audience Stunned

The spectators were stunned. They had anticipated a chance to let off steam and protest some of the economies and other actions of the board.

The board had permitted some persons to speak from the floor in the beginning of the meeting.

The residents sat almost quietly as the board members packed up their brief cases and papers. A few persons moved forward and tried to speak. The school directors ignored them.

As the school board members got up and left the room the stunned spectators gave out a loud round of frustrated boos.

In the past school bus drivers had been paid for eight hours a day, regardless how many they actually worked. Sometimes they worked more than eight hours, and other days less.

Straight Rate

The drivers will be paid on the straight hourly rate for any extra time they work. There will be no overtime.

The drivers will also only be employed while school is in session. They will not get any paid vacation.

The drivers will put gas and oil in their buses and sweep them out, but they will not grease or wash them, as they did in the past.

In addition, there will be only 24 drivers this year, compared to 27 last year. Drivers employed last year will have first chance at the jobs if they want.

In June the school board announced it would not hire the drivers for this summer, as it had in the past. The drivers protested and requested an arbitration panel to discuss the situation. The drivers picked Frank Iliko, one of the drivers, to represent them on the panel.

Last night the school board selected John Densham to represent it on the panel. Densham and Iliko will select a third man on the panel.

Decker said he and his staff came up with the economy proposals on the instruction of the school board.

Rev. Warren And Family Alaska Bound

The Rev. William T. Warren, former pastor of the Morrisville Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, and his family leave Monday morning for Alaska. The Rev. Warren will take up duties in Fairbanks Alaska assisting the bishop of that area.

While in Fairbanks, Rev. Warren will take up flying lessons because, "it's about the only way to get around up there to other areas," he said.

Rev. Warren is an old pro when it comes to trips out of the states. While working his way through college he signed aboard an oil tanker for three consecutive summers.

"The tanker sailed to South American ports," said Rev. Warren, who used the money earned, to make his way through Haverford College where he received his B.S. degree.

He earned his B. D. degree at the Virginia Theological Seminary.

The trip by car will take the Warrens north through Canada where they will stop off to visit friends and relatives in Calgary. From there they will take the Alaskan Highway northwest to Fairbanks.

Law Aims At Librarian

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama segregation screening committee will take up a bill next week aimed at firing the library official who refused to ban a children's picture book portraying the marriage of a black rabbit and a white rabbit.

Sources said the proposal is supported by State Sens. L. K. (Snag) Andrews and E. O. Eddins. In recent weeks, has been sharply critical of Miss Emily Reed, director of the Alabama Public Library Service.

Eddins criticized Miss Reed for not banning the book, "The Rabbits' Wedding," which he said was intended to spread racial integration propaganda. The author denied such intentions.

Morrisville Yardley Makefield

Yardley Merchants Want Liquor Store

By ANTHONY PATTERSON
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Some 35 members of the Yardley Businessmen's Association will continue their efforts to locate a state liquor store in the borough, it was announced.

The businessmen are presently circulating a petition throughout the borough citing the advantages of locating the state store.

The Regional Liquor Board in Philadelphia halted all proceedings to locate a store in Yardley after receiving protests from Yardley and area clergymen.

The board stated that whenever there is the slightest sign of opposition "the board stops all negotiations."

Yesterday, a spokesman for the regional State Liquor Control Board announced that as far as they were concerned, "the move to put a liquor store in Yardley was a dead issue."

Recreation Program Extended 2 Weeks

The Morrisville Recreation Program has been extended for an additional two weeks because of bad weather in the past which cancelled many activities, it was announced today.

The program is presently featuring a foul shooting contest for three age groups. From ten years of age and under; for 11, 12 and 13 year olds and for 14 years and over.

The foul shooting contest was scheduled to end Aug. 7 but rain and other problems delayed the action. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in the three age groups at the end of the season.

July Steel Output Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—The steel strike, which started in mid-July, slashed steel production for the month to 5,233,000 tons from 10,907,634 tons in the previous month preliminary estimates by American Iron and Steel Institute showed yesterday.

July mill output last year totaled 6,445,405 tons.

Steel production in the first seven months of 1959 was 69,511,203 tons as against 44,172,892 tons in the corresponding period a year ago, the report said.

Steel mills in July operated at 41.7 per cent of rated capacity as against 89.9 per cent in the previous month. During the first seven months the industry operated at 81.1 per cent of capacity.

According to the institute's index the July 1959 output was 73.6 in terms of the average 1947-49 production. This compared with 148.4 during June 1959 and 90.3 during July 1958.

The index for the first seven months was 142.9 compared with 90.8 during the same period last year.

BEER PRODUCTION UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beer production in June rose nearly one million barrels from May to 9,586,287 barrels, according to the Internal Revenue Service. This was about unchanged from June 1958.

Injuries Kill Morrisville Businessman

Norman Seltzer, 40, owner of the Morrisville United Cut-Rate Store on East Bridge St., died yesterday in Perth Amboy General Hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a five-car N.J. Turnpike collision on Wednesday.

Seltzer's wife, Dorothy, 37, was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital following the accident early Wednesday morning. The couple had made their home at 1457 Thornberry Dr. in Wyncote, Pa.

According to reports, a vehicle traveling south on the turnpike, jumped the center island and careened into the Seltzer car. The Seltzer auto, forced to the side, then caused a three car chain reaction collision.

A second couple in the Seltzer car, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kohn, also of Wyncote, were reported to be in Perth Amboy General Hospital recovering from multiple fractures and bruises.

The two couples were traveling to New York City for a day of "fun", according to sources.

The cut-rate store had been purchased by Seltzer only last November according to an employee.

Butler Ready To Leave L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler meets with Mayor Norris Poulson today and said he would "talk to anyone to settle this preposterous dispute" over tickets to the party's 1960 national convention here.

But Butler left no doubt that he was ready to throw open bids to other cities for the convention if his allocation of no more than 1,500 tickets to the Los Angeles host committee was not accepted.

"There is no question of a compromise," he said. "We can't bring tickets out of a hat."

He flew here late Thursday night from Washington when the intra-party squabble which has been brewing for months flared publicly with bitter statements by local civic leaders. They claim the host committee was promised 5,000 tickets to the convention by the national committee last Feb. 27.

In an odd coincidence, oilman Edwin Pauley — treasurer of the host committee and major spokesman for the 5,000-ticket demand — arrived at International Airport within two minutes after Butler.

While a crowd of reporters and local party leaders crowded around Butler, whose plane was four hours late, Pauley left the plane bringing him from Mexico and departed apparently unnoticed.

He had returned here for a meeting with Butler, claiming he was willing to negotiate despite his claims of having documentary proof that the national committee guaranteed the host committee 5,000 tickets.

Pauley already has expressed his approval of a compromise by Poulson whereby the host committee would accept 3,133 tickets.

But Butler remained adamant. "The national committee never made commitments in excess of 1,500 tickets," he said. "The national committee is not desirous of being arbitrary, unreasonable, but we know what we can do."

headquarters stated that any final decision in the matter would have to come from the state headquarters in Harrisburg.

A representative, speaking on behalf of the businessmen commented that, "a liquor store is not necessarily a discredit to a community."

He added that not having a store in the area would cause an inconvenience to persons who have to go outside the borough to purchase packaged goods.

The nearest state liquor stores are situated in Morrisville and Newtown. The closest place of purchase is across the river in New Jersey.

The businessmen feel that the store would greatly aid the community merchants by bringing new customers into the area. Possible site of the liquor establishment if the state board approves it, will be at the corner of Afton Ave. and Main Street.

Reports from the regional office in Philadelphia are that a second location in Yardley is also under study as an alternate.

Church Nears Completion

Completion of the new $250,000 Yardley Methodist Church is scheduled for sometime around Christmas according to an announcement today.

The cost of the new structure, which is located at the junction of Yardley, Newtown and Langhorne Roads in Yardley, includes landscaping, furnishings and complete construction work.

The Rev. Philip Palmer, pastor of the church stated that, "most of the outside work is fairly completed and the workmen recently erected a new cement step. It should take about another week to complete the portico to the front."

Members of the congregation presently use the old Yardley Methodist Church located on Main Street in Yardley.

Labor Secretary

Urges S.S. Program

HARRISBURG (UPI)—State Labor and Industry Secretary William Batt Thursday urged third class city officials to bring their employees under federal social security before the September deadline.

Batt addressed a conference on social security for third class city employees here. He told the administrators that laws recently signed by Gov. David L. Laeener signed by Gov. David L. Lawrence make it possible for third class cities to adopt social security coverage without the financial requirements formerly needed. The cities now can cover their employees under consolidated federal-municipal retirement systems.

Batt told the administrators that 14 of Pennsylvania's third class cities have no social security plan at all; some of the 33 in effect provide for only very limited coverage; and practically all the existing plans could be expanded to include additional employees.
